The HOLY SPIRIT

Much controversy and confusion exists in understanding who the Holy Spirit is and what he does.

- Many consider the Spirit to be impersonal, rather like a force—the energy or power of God. The Scriptures confirm the powerful nature of the Holy Spirit. He is named the Power of God and Spirit of Might, and yet the Bible tells us much more about him. Unlike a mere force, he can be lied to (Acts 5:3–4), he can be grieved (Ephesians 4:30), he has a name (Matthew 28:19).
- Other people see the Spirit as the common bond of love among God’s people. The Scriptures call him the Spirit of grace, of mercy and of comfort; but he is also called the Spirit of truth and judgment (discernment), indicating that he is more than simply a warm fuzzy feeling we get when we are together.
- Some understand the Holy Spirit as the mind, the intellect, behind creation. To be sure, he is the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, but more than a cosmic computer. He is in fact God, the third Person of the Trinity.

Studying the names of the Spirit found in the Bible will help us get a fuller, well-rounded idea of who he is and how he operates and so allow us to worship and serve God in a fuller and richer capacity.

The TRINITY

In the simplest of terms, Christians believe that there is only one God, and this one God exists as one essence in three Persons—the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

Why do Christians Believe in the Trinity?

- The Bible clearly teaches that there is only one God, yet it calls all three Persons God.
- There is only one God (Deuteronomy 6:4; Isaiah 44:6, 8; 45:5a).
- The Father is God (1 Corinthians 8:6; Ephesians 4:4–6).
- The Son is God (John 1:1–5, 14; John 10:30–33; John 20:28; Hebrews 1:6–8; Philippians 2:9–11; see these passages about Jesus’ deity: Isaiah 7:14; Isaiah 9:6; John 1:1; John 1:18; John 8:58, 59; John 10:30; Acts 20:28; Romans 9:5; 10:9–13; Colossians 1:15, 16; Colossians 2:9; Titus 2:13; Hebrews 1:3, 8; 2 Peter 1:1; 1 John 5:20).
- The Holy Spirit is God (Acts 5:3, 4; 2 Corinthians 3:17; Exodus 34:34; 2 Corinthians 3:16).

SPIRIT and PRAYER

The Spirit of God is the Spirit of prayer. We can only approach God through Christ with the help of the Spirit. Jesus is humanity's only access to God (John 14:6). Since his ascension, Christ has not been physically present on earth; the only way to lay our requests and worship before him, and so before God, is by means of the Holy Spirit.

Jesus promised the gift of the Spirit in the life of his disciples (John 14:16–17) and the Bible tells us that one of the crucial tasks of the Spirit is to inspire and guide our prayers. When our weaknesses prevent us from relating to God correctly, the Spirit intercedes for us—that is, he pleads our case before God (Romans 8:26–27)—so we can rest assured that the Spirit is praying alongside us, making our prayers what they ought to be.

If we understand prayer as communication with God, then we will be able to see it more fully as a dialogue, rather than a monologue on our part. Prayer is a two-way conversation; the other half of our worship before God is God's guidance and clarity of his will to us. Just as we may only reach God in the Spirit through the truth of Christ (John 4:24), so also God's guidance and teaching comes to us only through Christ by means of the Spirit (John 14:26; 15:26; 16:12–14).

FRUIT of the SPIRIT

In Galatians 5:16–25, the Apostle Paul contrasts two different motivations for life: one that allows the sinful nature to lead it, and another that follows the promptings and guidance of the Spirit. The sinful nature produces attitudes and actions that oppose God's will (Galatians 5:19–21). The Spirit naturally leads one to attitudes and actions that are in step with the will of God. Paul calls these attitudes and actions fruit of the Spirit. Fruits are the way plants reproduce—they carry the seeds. They are aromatic, colorful and tasty so that they can please and attract carriers of their seed, who spread them and allow the plant to reproduce. The life of a person whom the Spirit leads produces fruit: attitudes and behavior that are pleasing to God and other people. These fruit of the Spirit are: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control (Galatians 5: 22–23).

BAPTISM of the HOLY SPIRIT

Different Christian groups define the baptism of the Holy Spirit in different ways.

- For some the idea is intimately connected to water baptism and initiation into God's family. Jesus' own baptism seems to set the pattern, where water and the Spirit are both evident (Matthew 3:11–17). Paul speaks of this idea of being initiated into the church this way (1 Corinthians 12:13).
- For others, baptism of the Holy Spirit may be very distinct from water baptism. Here the emphasis is an infusion of power for ministry. The book of Acts recounts many instances in which this infusion took place apart from water baptism (Acts 2:4; 4:8).
- Still others regard the Spirit's work as centering on identification with Christ. Paul understands baptism and the work of the Spirit as connecting and conforming us to Christ's life by being baptized into or identified with his death (Romans 6:3–4).

In fact, all of these works—initiation, infusion and identification—are involved in the work of the Holy Spirit. His work, his baptism involves all three, though they may not all be in view together at one time. We are initiated into the life and body of Christ by the regenerating act of the Spirit. We are infused with God's power for ministry when the Spirit fills us with himself.

We are identified with Christ in his life, death, and resurrection as the Holy Spirit transforms us into Christ's image. All these things may be said to be part of the baptism of the Holy Spirit, for different passages in Scripture direct us to each of these. Yet, there is a sense in which these diverse works are one work of the same Spirit, though we may experience each at different times in our lives. This experiential time difference, coupled with what seems to be different definitions and usage of the term “baptism of the Holy Spirit” in Scripture has led to controversy between Christian groups over this issue.

If we step back to get the larger picture of this singular, timeless work of the Spirit, we may come to see baptism of the Holy Spirit as involving the entire work of the Spirit in, through, and on behalf of humanity.

BLASPHEMY AGAINST the HOLY SPIRIT

Jesus said, “People will be forgiven for their sins and whatever blasphemies they utter, but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit can never have forgiveness” (Mark 3:28).

The issue of blasphemy against the Spirit has bothered many Bible readers.

What is blasphemy against the Holy Spirit?

Blasphemy involves an utterance or action that purposefully defames God. Blasphemies against God are prohibited by the third commandment (Exodus 20:7), yet people regularly misuse God’s name and are forgiven. Jesus’ name is a target of abuse, yet Christ himself teaches that these offenses may be forgiven (Luke 12:10). What makes blasphemy of the Holy Spirit different?

Jesus seems to be speaking about something bigger than mere words or actions directed against God’s Spirit. The context (Mark 3:30) helps us to see that what Jesus’ accusers were involved in was insisting that Jesus’ Spirit (the Holy Spirit) was at the core demonic, satanic, evil! The point seems to be not that the name calling itself could not be forgiven, but that the ramifications of their words would cause the speakers to reject God’s only offer of salvation.

Why?

Because the Holy Spirit is God’s final witness to Christ and his salvation! Whatever one may say of Christ, if the whisper of the Spirit in the ear or the shout of his voice in creation and history is ignored fully and finally, there can be no forgiveness, because there will be no regeneration, no conversion, no repentance.

Blasphemy of the Holy Spirit is thus tied to one of the Spirit’s most important works—revelation. In the end, it is the Spirit of Truth, the Spirit of Revelation who must turn the minds and hearts of the human race. If we do not listen to him, we shall never receive Christ, and if we never receive Christ, God will never forgive us.

GIFTS of the HOLY SPIRIT

The Bible clearly teaches that the Spirit distributes gifts to everyone who believes in Christ. The following is a list of gifts and the chapters where they are found.

Study Tip

In addition to Paul's list of gifts, the apostle Peter also mentions gifts, dividing them into speaking and serving categories (1 Peter 4:10–11). Compare Paul's list to see how it also divides roughly into half speaking and half serving gifts. The book of Acts is also another great place to see the gifts in action. As you read through the book make a note whenever you encounter the use of one of the gifts listed above.

The Holy Spirit gives gifts with particular spiritual functions for the benefit of the entire church. Paul's teaching in 1 Corinthians 12 speaks about the organic unity of Christ's body, the Church. The gifts complement each other and work together for the common good, much as the parts of the body are designed to do. Because this is true, the gifts are given to the church as a whole. It is only within the context of the believing community that the gifts are made to work and only within that community that they can be discovered in the first place.

Our understanding of gifts and gifting depends on how we view the Holy Spirit. He is God's gift to us as individuals and as a body (see Acts 2:38 and 10:45). Individuals who have come into this life, the life of Christ, are automatically part of a larger whole. These gifts operate as parts of a whole. Gifting, reception of the Spirit, and membership in the Body of Christ are all connected in the life of the believer and for the good of the whole church.
